Denmark

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

China and Denmark are separated by oceans, but deep understanding and sincere friendship have always existed between the people of our two countries. Denmark is one of the earliest European countries to recognize the People's Republic of China, and diplomatic relations between China and Denmark were established in 1950. For a long period, the government of the Kingdom of Denmark resolutely stood for restoring the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations. Last year, the Danish Foreign Minister openly declared that Denmark has always regarded Taiwan as a part of China and the question of Taiwan is a question of China's internal affair. The Chinese people express their heartfelt thanks to the Danish government and people for their stand of upholding justice. At the same time, the Chinese government and people resolutely support the Kingdom of Denmark in all her just actions to defend her own independence and sovereignty and oppose big-power hegemony.

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

After the founding of new China, Denmark was one of the first countries to establish diplomatic relations with her. Denmark long stood for the restoration to China of her legitimate rights in the United Nations. Over the years, the contacts between the governments and between the peoples of our two countries have continuously developed and our trade and scientific and cultural exchanges have increased step by step; these are in conformity with the desires and interests of our two peoples. Although China and Denmark have different social systems, neither of us has ever harbored any intention of infringing or interfering in the other country's sovereignty, and we are both willing to develop our relations on the basis of the five principles of peaceful co-existence. Without signing any so-called security treaty, we feel safe to make friends and do business with each other and need not guard against each other. Therefore, our relations have always been normal and good, and there are broad prospects for their development.

Japan

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

China and Japan are close neighbors with only a strip of water in between. The people of the two countries have had frequent friendly contacts since ancient times. In the more than 20 years after the war, the people of the two countries had experienced great inconvenience in paying mutual visits because they had to travel in a roundabout way because there was no direct air traffic. Now regular air service is inaugurated between the two countries in accordance with the stipulations of the China-Japan Air Transport Agreement, putting an end to the abnormal communication situation in the past. This aerial bridge across the sea which links our two countries directly will further facilitate friendly contacts between the two peoples and promote continuous development of economic and cultural exchange between the two countries, thus further consolidating and strengthening the good-neighborly and friendly relations between China and Japan. Doubtlessly this entirely conforms to the fundamental interests and common aspirations of the people of the two countries.

....Though there are still a handful of extremely stubborn elements who try to obstruct the sound development of China-Japan relations and undermine the progress of China-Japan friendship, yet this small adverse current can never stem the continuing torrential flow of the historic current of China-Japan friendship.

The Chinese people are determined to continue to make joint effort with the Japanese people for further strengthening the friendship of the people of our two countries and making them friends from generation to generation.

Li Hsien-nien, Vice Premier:

China and Nigeria are both developing countries belonging to the third world. The peoples of our two countries have always sympathized with and supported each other in combating imperialism, colonialism, hegemonism, racism and Zionism, in defending national independence and in building up their own countries. Since the establishment of diplomatic relations, friendly exchanges, trade and economic relations between China and Nigeria have steadily increased and the mutual understanding and friendship between our two peoples have grown day by day.

Philippines

Li Hsien-nien, Vice Premier:

China and the Philippines are neighbors separated by a strip of water. Between the peoples of our two countries, there exists a traditional friendship of long standing. They have the common experience of suffering long from foreign aggression and oppression and have always sympathized with and supported each other in the struggle against colonialism and imperialism. Today, both our countries are developing countries belonging to the third world. We are glad to note that in recent years, thanks to the joint efforts of our two sides, friendly exchanges between China and the philippines have been resumed and developed, and the trade between our two countries has steadily increased. This is another proof that countries with different social systems can develop relations on the basis of the principles of mutual respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity, mutual non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit, and peaceful co-existence. We believe that the visit of Mme. Imelda Marcos will make a new contribution to promoting the relations between China and the Philippines and the friendship between our two peoples.

Togo

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

China and Togo are both developing countries belonging to the third world. In the common struggle against imperialism and colonialism, the people of our two countries have always sympathized with and supported each other and have forged a profound friendship. Since the establishment of diplomatic relations, the friendly relations and cooperation between China and Togo have developed rapidly and satisfactorily on the basis of the five principles of peaceful co-existence, and the friendship between our two peoples has grown day by day. We believe that the visit of His Excellency the President and Mme. Eyadema to China will be a new milestone in the history of the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries and the friendship between our two peoples.
